Tesla expected to announce big plans for 2017 at Wednesday event

By Kayla Anderson
Sparks Tribune

Tesla recently showed drone footage of the construction progress of its Gigafactory in Sparks with the plan to produce at least 500,000 cars a year by 2018. While the main goal of the Gigafactory will be pumping out electric car batteries at record speeds, construction will not be completely finished for at least a few more years.

The aerial views of the gigafactory also come days before a Tesla Gigafactory Investor event scheduled for Wednesday. The invite-only occasion to be hosted at the gigafactory coincides with the upcoming CES conference in Las Vegas (regarded as the biggest technology and global consumer electronics tradeshow of the year).

The investor event will be organized with a Q&A session featuring Tesla's CEO Elon Musk. It is speculated that Tesla will announce the start of new battery production, originally promised to begin by the end of 2016.

Even though CES will begin a day later in Las Vegas, people on the invite list will most likely make the detour up to the Sparks gigafactory to see what's going on. Tesla does not plan to attend CES as sources say it wants to have a more hands-on way to showcase its progress and accomplishments.

Tesla did not respond to requests for more information, but, other sources

Snow expected in Sparks through the weekend

Sparks Tribune and The Associated Press

Blowing snow is creating poor visibility for travelers east and west of Reno as a winter storm makes its way into the Sierra Nevada, where a foot or more of snow is expected around Lake Tahoe by Wednesday night.

Light snow fell in Sparks on Monday afternoon into the evening and should increase at times as the week goes on.

A winter weather advisory was issued for the Reno-Sparks area from 4 p.m. Tuesday until 4 p.m. on Wednesday. Snow on the valley floor is expected to be around 2 to 4 inches, with 4 to 8 inches above 5,000 feet. Wind gusts could also reach up to 40 miles per hour in some areas.

The unsettled winter weather is forecasted to continue through the weekend, with a chance of snow on Saturday into Monday.

The National Weather Service also issued a winter storm warning Monday for the Sierra's eastern front north of Reno in effect until 4 p.m. Wednesday.

The warning goes into effect at 10 a.m. Tuesday through 4 a.m. Thursday for an area around Lake Tahoe stretching south to Mammoth Lakes, California.

The service said about 2 inches of snow had fallen on the west edge of Reno Monday afternoon, with as much as a foot at the top of some Tahoe ski resorts.

Nearly 7 inches of snow was reported about 70 miles north of Reno near Susanville, California.

4 HURT IN CRASH IN VEGAS AIRPORT RENTAL CAR RETURN CENTER

LAS VEGAS — Authorities say two pedestrians were badly hurt and a couple from California received minor injuries in a New Year's morning crash in a vehicle return area at a Las Vegas airport car rental center.

Las Vegas police say Isabel Auler and Miriam Caguin, both 55, were taken to Sunrise Hospital & Medical Center with serious injuries after the crash about 10 a.m. Sunday at the Hertz McCarran parking lot.

Police say a rented Hyundai Sonata driven by 79-year-old Robert Stevens of Long Beach, California, accelerated into the parking area on Giles Street and struck four cars and the two women.

Stevens and his passenger, 78-year-old Patricia Stevens, were taken to Sunrise hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

Police say Robert Stevens didn't appear to be impaired by alcohol or drugs, and it wasn't immediately clear what caused the car to accelerate.

SOUTH TAHOE POLICE PROBE DRIVE-BY SHOOTING; NO ONE HURT

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. — Police in South Lake Tahoe are investigating a drive-by shooting at a motel about a mile west of the casino strip in Stateline, Nevada.

Police said Friday no one was hurt in the shooting reported just before 10 p.m. Thursday at the Pioneer Inn Motel on Pioneer Trail.

Witnesses say several young Hispanic males were in the dark-colored pickup truck that stopped in the motel parking lot before one or more of them starting shooting.

KTVN-TV in Reno reports (<http://tinyurl.com/zpabrn1>) detectives obtained a warrant Friday and seized a truck that may have been involved in the incident.

Anyone with information is asked to call the South Lake Tahoe Police Department at 530-542-6100, or Lake Tahoe Secret Witness at 530-541-6800.

WOMAN KILLED AFTER GUN ACCIDENTALLY DISCHARGES IN PARKED CAR

LAS VEGAS — Police say a woman was killed in a car after a firearm accidentally discharged while she and her friends were handling it.

The Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department says the incident took place about 4:30 a.m. Sunday in the 3800 block of Cambridge Street.

Investigators say the victim and her female friend were in the parked car with two men they had met at a New Year's Eve party.

Police say no arrests have been made, but the incident remains under investigation. The department did not release the identity of the victim.

The department says this is the first homicide it has investigated this year.

TROOPERS RELEASE NAMES OF 3 KILLED IN CRASH NEAR TONOPAH

TONOPAH — Authorities have identified three people who died in a head-on crash about 10 miles south of Tonopah.

The Nevada Highway Patrol on Thursday said 80-year-old driver Dan Haskon Norcom and 78-year-old passenger Diane Celestine Atencio, both of Goldfield, died on U.S. Highway 95 Wednesday when a pickup truck pulling a trailer crossed into oncoming traffic and hit their car head-on.

Troopers say the pickup driver, 47-year-old Michael Wayne McKinis of Tonopah, also died.

Two other people in his truck were hospitalized with serious but non-life threatening injuries.

Troopers say they don't suspect the drivers were impaired.

OVERCROWDING AT MT. CHARLESTON CLOSES ROADS

LAS VEGAS — The Nevada Highway Patrol says overcrowding at Mt. Charleston temporarily closed roads to the mountain on New Year's Day.

KVVU-TV reports that State Route 156 and State Route 157 were closed at U.S. 95 Sunday afternoon.

The temporary closure blocked all traffic except residents and lift ticket holders at the resort about 40 miles from Las Vegas.

HELLER SAYS HE'LL SEEK RE-ELECTION TO SENATE IN 2018

LAS VEGAS — Nevada Republican Sen. Dean Heller announced Thursday that he'll seek re-election to the Senate in 2018, ending speculation that he would run for governor.

Heller announced his plan in a statement on Facebook and through Twitter, saying he believed he could have the biggest impact for Nevada if he ran for re-election as Nevada's senior senator.

"Serving as governor would be an enormous honor, but I am looking forward to being Nevada's strongest voice on Capitol Hill," he wrote.

Heller has held the seat since 2011, when he was appointed to finish the term of Republican Sen. John Ensign after Ensign resigned amid an ethics investigation. He narrowly defeated Democratic Rep. Shelley Berkley for the seat in 2012, becoming the only Republican Senate candidate to win that year in a state that President Barack Obama carried.

Observers speculated whether Heller would try to leverage his incumbency advantage to retain that seat in 2018, or whether he would return to Nevada and seek the governorship when popular but term-limited Republican Gov. Brian Sandoval leaves office.

Even with Heller out, several other Republicans are seen as potential gubernatorial contenders. They include Attorney General Adam Laxalt, whose campaign consultant didn't comment Thursday on Laxalt's 2018 plan.

A representative for potential candidate Lt. Gov. Mark Hutchison also declined to comment on his plans, although Hutchison tweeted that he was "Looking forward to supporting my friend @DeanHeller's campaign for U.S. Senate, keeping up the fight for what's right for Nevada."

Democrats, fresh off a tough but triumphant campaign to replace retiring Democratic Sen. Harry Reid with former Nevada Attorney General Catherine Cortez Masto, have fewer obvious choices for a 2018 Senate candidate.

They moved quickly to criticize their new opponent, calling Heller "too chicken to run for governor" and "cravenly silent on Donald Trump's rigged Cabinet picks."

"Dean Heller has no core," Nevada State Democratic Party Chari Roberta Lange said. "As Senator, Dean Heller has skated by as a sub-par and lazy Washington politician with the lack of work product to show for it."

New year means new Nevada laws on marijuana, mopeds

By Michelle Rindels
Associated Press

The new year is ushering in some new laws for Nevadans. Here's a look at what's new on the books for 2017:

RECREATIONAL MARIJUANA

Recreational marijuana use for people 21 and over becomes legal in Nevada on Jan. 1, after Nevada voters approved a ballot measure in November.

But authorities emphasize that consumption is not allowed in public places and should be done at home. Using pot in public is a misdemeanor that carries a fine of up to $600.

Driving under the influence of marijuana is illegal. It's also illegal to possess more than one ounce of marijuana or one-eighth of an ounce of concentrated marijuana.

Retail dispensaries are not yet licensed to sell pot for recreational use and can only provide their products to people with valid medical marijuana cards. Officials from the Nevada Department of Taxation, which is crafting regulations for recreational marijuana businesses, has until 2018 to license retail dispensaries but said it's aiming to get that done by the summer.

GUN BACKGROUND CHECKS

Nevada voters narrowly approved a law that calls for background checks on more gun sales and transfers, but officials say they can't enforce it starting Jan. 1 as planned because neither the state nor the FBI is able to conduct the checks.

Question 1 called for FBI background checks on private party gun sales and passed by less than a percentage point. But the FBI informed the state in mid-December that it wants Nevada to conduct the checks because the state databases are more comprehensive.

The Nevada Attorney General's Office released an opinion Wednesday saying the ballot measure doesn't give state agencies the authority to conduct the checks.

Proponents of background checks, including Democratic leaders in the Nevada Senate, said they'll explore whether any legislation can get the background checks going.

Republican Gov. Brian Sandoval vetoed a bill in 2013 that would have imposed similar requirements.

MOPED REGISTRATION

Moped owners must register their vehicles with the DMV or face a citation in the new year, thanks to a law passed in 2015 that aims to stop scooter thieves.

Democratic state Sen. Mo Denis led the charge, saying hundreds of scooters are stolen each year, but owners have no easy way of proving the vehicles belong to them and often can't get them back from impound lots.

Moped owners must bring their vehicles to the DMV to determine the vehicle identification number and verify whether the vehicle is a moped or a motorcycle. mopeds don't require a motorcycle-specific driver's license, insurance or a helmet, while motorcycles do.

One-time fees for registration are about $60.

TROOPER BODY CAMERAS

A new law effective Jan. 1 requires all Nevada Highway Patrol officers who regularly interact with the public to wear body cameras.

State legislators passed a bill in 2015 that seeks to hold both officers and the public accountable if their encounters go awry. They approved $1.3 million to get the initiative up and running.

The law defines the recordings as a public record but specifies that people who want to see it must request it on a per-incident basis. Legislators also called on the highway patrol to develop policies that would protect the privacy of people in their homes and those who are trying to report a crime anonymously.

NEVADA HISTORY

Hoard of gold coins found at Lovelock Chinatown

By Dennis Cassinelli

There are countless stories about lost or buried treasure with gold, silver and other valuable items in Nevada history. Most of these are legends that may or may not have any basis in fact. The following story is one of the rare cases where a real treasure was found when there was no previous knowledge that it even existed.

During my highway construction inspecting days, I spent several seasons working in Lovelock, Nevada. This northern Nevada ranching community marked the beginning of the dreaded Forty Mile Desert for the emigrants headed to California in 1849. It became a watering and fueling center for the Central Pacific Railroad in 1869. In more modern times, when I worked there, the Interstate 80 Freeway was being constructed along the south side of town.

There was once a Chinatown in Lovelock where the local Chinese lived and operated small businesses such as restaurants, gaming houses and laundries. Many of these people had come to the area years before to work on the railroads and mining. By 1975, when the Interstate 80 freeway was being built along the south side of town, many of the original Chinese population of the area had either moved away or been relocated. It was the dream of many of the Orientals to work long and hard enough to earn money to eventually return to their homeland.

Freeway construction took out a large area of town south of Amherst Avenue. This was the area where the local Chinatown was located. If you are traveling on I-80 and exit at Main Street by Macdonalds, you will find Amherst Avenue and a small, narrow community park between the freeway ramp and Amherst. This is where the old Chinese houses and businesses were torn down to be replaced by the park.

Before demolition of the houses, NDOT conducted an archaeological study of the old buildings. When the archaeologists searched the three buildings being studied, they found an amazing cache of gold, silver, tokens and oriental coins. Since the property had been purchased by the State of Nevada for the construction project, the collection became the property of the Nevada State Museum.

Eugene Hattori, Curator of Anthropology at the Nevada State Museum, has provided me with a copy of the study done by the archaeologists of this 1975 discovery. Hattori was the archaeologist who excavated the 900 Carson City coin dies I discovered at the old mint building in 1999. He occasionally has a showing of the Lovelock collection, one of which I attended.

The collection consists of 211 American, Chinese, Annamese and Japanese coins and 4 American trade tokens. Most of the coins were found in three different structures, with all of the gold coins being found in one house. The house had a cellar, common in homes of that era. When the archaeologist searched the cellar, he discovered a jar hidden under the floor. The jar contained 112 American gold pieces that was likely the savings of someone who passed away, never revealing his secret.

The gold coins ranged in age from 1874 to 1910. This indicates the owner must have died after 1910. There were 21 five dollar gold pieces, 11 ten dollar gold pieces and 80 twenty dollar gold pieces. The face value of the gold coins was $1865.00. In today's market, the collection could be worth in excess of $200,000.

Most of the gold coins were minted in San Francisco. A few were minted in Philadelphia and there was one 1892 five dollar gold piece that was minted in Carson City. The largest number of the coins show dates between 1897 and 1910.

Nearly 90 Chinese and other oriental coins found in the other two structures on the site indicated they may have been businesses catering to the Orientals, such as gaming establishments. There were many Chinese "cash" coins with square holes, that were often used as gaming tokens. Many of the Chinese cash coins are very old and can be dated from 1662 to 1908.

There were about 50 United States pennies, nickels, dimes and one 1889-O silver dollar found on the site. There was one trade token from San Francisco, one from the Owl Bar in Lovelock, one from the Crystal Saloon in Sparks and one from the Commercial Hotel in Elko.

I am a tour guide at the Nevada State Museum in Carson City. If you contact me at the email address below, I can make arrangements for you to see the collection.

Voluntary lead testing available for Nevada elementary schools

The Nevada Division of Environmental Protection has secured U.S. Environmental Protection Agency funding to begin a voluntary testing program for Nevada elementary schools.

Grant funding will cover laboratory analytical costs to initiate drinking water sampling in all 408 Nevada public schools (including public charter schools) with a Kindergarten or Pre-K program. In the event that an old drinking water fountain or old culinary fixture is contributing lead to school drinking water, the grant also provides funding for replacement of fixtures until the funds are depleted.

"Nevada's naturally hard water helps prevent a lead problem in many areas and overall compliance with the lead action level is excellent," said Jennifer Carr, Deputy Administrator of NDEP. "However, old plumbing and fixtures can potentially contribute lead and copper to drinking water. This funding will help our schools gather important information about their drinking water."

Tests conducted at Lyon County's Dayton Elementary School this fall showed that all samples taken from water fountains and fixtures had lead and copper levels that were not detectable, or were well below the NDEP action levels for drinking water. In the coming months, the NDEP will reach out to each school district to discuss the details of the program and seek participation.

For more information about lead in Nevada's drinking water and compliance data for public water systems, visit ndep.nv.gov.

SPARKS PAWN SHOP BURGLARY SUSPECT TREATED FOR HYPOTHERMIA

SPARKS — A suspect in a Nevada pawn shop burglary was treated for hypothermia after he barricaded himself in a chilly crawlspace beneath a house in Reno for more than two hours.

Sparks police say 43-year-old Tom Anderson complained of possible hypothermia due to exposure after he was transported to police headquarters following Monday's arrest.

Sparks police Lt. Peter Krall said paramedics treated Anderson before he was taken to the Washoe County Jail and booked on suspicion of burglary. 31-year-old Rebecca Ervin also was arrested in connection with the two October burglaries at the Super Pawn store in Sparks.

Krall says Reno police and a county sheriff's K-9 unit helped apprehend Anderson. He says additional charges are pending.

Anderson and Ervin were being held Monday without bail pending an initial court appearance. It wasn't immediately clear if they had lawyers.

ARSON SUSPECT KILLED BY RENO POLICE DROVE INTO 2 OFFICERS

SPARKS — Sparks police say a robbery and arson suspect fatally shot by Reno police on Dec. 21 knocked two officers down with his car in a Reno casino parking lot before they opened fire.

Sparks Police Lt. Mike Keating said Thursday 38-year-old Raymond Salaiz refused orders to exit his vehicle, started it as they tried to remove the keys and quickly backed up.

Keating says Salaiz dragged one officer a short distance and knocked both down before exiting the lot at the Gold Dust West Casino and colliding with another vehicle. He died that night at a Reno hospital.

Keating didn't say if Salaiz was armed, and refused to take questions at a brief news conference. He said police are still looking for his alleged accomplice, Sara Castro-Martin, in a Dec. 6 burglary and arson at a Sparks hotel-casino.

Tesla

say that Tesla does have some aggressive goals planned for 2017, which include:

- Incremental updates to Autopilot 2.0, its self-driving software system. Musk stated that Tesla hopes to be able to demonstrate a fully autonomous automobile by test-driving a vehicle from LA to New York, dropping you off in Times Square and then parking itself.

- As long as Tesla remains on time, the first Model 3's will be let out into the market. Around 400,000 people have already pre-ordered the sleek sports car-looking vehicle, but those on the waiting list may not get their cars for a couple of years.

- Tesla's "machine that makes the machine"- the rapidly-growing company understands that it needs to exponentially increase its production speed in order to reach its goals. Therefore, it is working on a model to turn the factory itself into a product by building more gigafactories. Tesla is looking at breaking ground on Gigafactory 2 to be based in Europe sometime soon.

- "Tesla Glass" solar shingles coming soon: Since its recent merger with SolarCity and solar roof unveiling, Tesla is looking towards improving that product and further promoting the Tesla Powerwall 2.0 battery.

- Continuing the integration of Powerpacks in various parts of the world: Acting as a backup power source or supplement to traditional systems, Tesla is ready supplying this solar array to destination places and resorts in places in North Carolina and Fiji. In fact, Ta'u island- located 4,000 miles off the west coast- supplies its community with nearly 100 percent of renewable energy thanks to Tesla's 60 Powerpacks and 5,328 SolarCity panels.

- Along with electric consumer vehicles, Tesla is busy trying to create heavy-duty trucks and buses. According to a Tesla blog post, "Both are in the early stages of development at Tesla and should be ready for unveiling next year."

- Tesla will also be revealing its pickup truck and Model Y compact SUV.

The event Wednesday will end with tours of the gigafactory, which is the first time anyone will have the chance to really see the operation.

Actor Leonardo DeCaprio visited the gigafactory to chat with Tesla's Elon Musk for his documentary Before the Flood, which aired this past fall on the National Geographic channel. In DiCaprio's meeting with Musk, they discussed how countries could persuade the world to switch from fossil fuels to clean energy by implementing a carbon tax. Musk also relayed how many gigafactories it would take to get the entire world running on renewable energy.

Cougs split four in San Diego

Sparks Tribune

Spanish Springs wrapped up its San Diego trip with a 60-56 comeback win over Army-Navy (Carlsbad, Calif.) on Friday afternoon.

The Cougars split their four games in southern California and now sit at 9-4 on the season. The Warriors dipped to 6-8.

Spanish Springs trailed 43-37 going to the fourth, where it outscored Army-Navy, 23-13.

Marcus Loadholt shot 5-of-11 from deep to lead the Cougs with 25 points, also pulling down a team-high eight rebounds. He wasn't the game's leading scorer, however. He was bested by the Warriors' Richard Polanco who went off for 31 points, connecting on 14-of-20 shots from the field.

Damani Craig was the only Cougar to join Loadholt in double figures, finishing with 12 points.

Spanish Springs now merges back into 4A North play for good, starting tonight at Damonte Ranch (1-10, 1-3).

SPANISH SPRINGS 64, BAKERSFIELD 54

After dropping their first two contests of the Under Armour Classic in San Diego, the Cougars got past Bakersfield (Bakersfield, Calif.) on Thursday morning, 64-54.

Loadholt went off for 24 points. Freshman Mason Whittaker scored 13 on 6-of-6 shooting from the field. Josh Prizina hauled in 15 rebounds to go along with nine points.

Boys hoops storylines to watch in New Year

By Nathan Shoup
Sparks Tribune Sports Editor

The Reed, Spanish Springs and Sparks boys basketball teams enter 2017 with varying degrees of expectation.

Here are the storylines to watch for the Cougars, Raiders and Railroaders:

SPANISH SPRINGS COUGARS: CAN THEY GET IT DONE?

The goal for this team is pretty simple. Win the program's first regional title.

That's how talented this bunch is.

Josh Prizina and Korbin Marcum provide plenty of playmaking ability in the frontcourt. Marcus Loadholt, Jalen Townsell, Bryce DeLong and Justus Eaglesmith make up what may be the most dangerous backcourt in the 4A North.

All of the above players mentioned are seniors. Experience tends to pay off come tournament time in February.

The Cougars passed their first true regional test two weeks ago when they handled Galena at home, 58-42. They also went to Carson, the defending regional champ, and lowered the boom, 66-41.

The next big test looms on Friday at Bishop Manogue. Spanish Springs fell to the Miners early in December in the Wild West Shootout.

So, can they get it done? The talent is there.

REED RAIDERS: CAN THEY GET IN?

Reed is not going to compete for the regional title this winter.

However, the Raiders are in contention for what would likely be the fourth and final playoff spot in the High Desert League.

Spanish Springs, Reno and McQueen are likely out of reach, but if the Raiders can get past Hug and North Valleys, they're in.

Reed played North Valleys last Wednesday and came up short in a tight contest, 59-54.

First-year coach Joe Genung knew he had his work cut out for him when he took the job in the offseason. He's the third coach in as many years and has been handed the responsibility of creating culture where there currently isn't one.

The Raiders weren't going to come out swinging, although they did win their opener in thrilling fashion, 64-61 over Damonte.

Seniors Jeremy Ramos and Lincoln Turner, as well as sophomore Matt Williams, provide a solid foundation to build on. They can't do it alone though. A couple other players need to become consistent, forcing opposing teams to remain honest.

SPARKS RAILROADERS: WHAT CAN MATT LONGLAND DO?

Coach Dan Schreiber knew lack of size would be an obstacle this season.

To counter, he planned to implement an incredibly fast tempo while using most of his bench to remain fresh. It's yet to gain traction.

Sparks has stumbled to a 1-11 start. At just 0-3 in 3A North play, Sparks has plenty of time to get itself in contention for one of the region's six playoff spots.

The most exciting player on the team, without a doubt, has been senior Matt Longland. Longland is well on his way to earning first-team all-league accolades, averaging nearly 15 points per game – six points more than the team's second-leading scorer.

Longland accounted for nearly half his team's offensive production in Thursday's 49-41 loss to Hug, finishing with 19 points.

In a season that's already growing gloomy, Longland is sure to be a bright spot.

Raiders roll to tourney title

Reed overcame a sluggish first half to come back and beat Lowry, 51-40, at McQueen on Wednesday to claim the Varsity Elite Tournament title.

The Raiders (8-2, 3-1) trailed 21-13 at the break before taking over in the second half. The defending 3A North champion Buckaroos (10-2) suffered just their second defeat of the season.

Taylor Johnson led the Raiders with 16 points in the victory.

REED HANDLES PYRAMID LAKE, NEVADA UNION

The Raiders picked up a pair of non-league tournament victories last Tuesday afternoon.

Reed handled Pyramid Lake, 66-6, and got past Nevada Union, 51-44.

In the win over Pyramid Lake, freshman Autumn Wadsworth scored a game-high 17 points. Serene Townsell-Williams chipped in 11.

Johnson took over the lead scoring duties in the much narrower win over Nevada Union, matching Wadsworth's 17-point performance. Nobody else reached double figures.

Homecourt didn't help the Railroaders last week.

Sparks (1-11) finished an 0-4 week at the Nugget Rail City Classic on Thursday morning with a 48-41 loss to Hug. The Hawks improved to 6-8.

Matt Longland was 4-of-7 from deep and led the Railroaders with 19 points. Vashisth Patel had eight and nobody else in Sparks uniform had more than five.

The Railroaders led 26-18 at the half, but were outscored 30-15 in the second half.

Sparks jumps back into 3A North play on Wednesday at Dayton (1-7, 0-3).

YERINGTON 60, SPARKS 55

Sparks was on the wrong end of the scoreboard for the 10th time in just 11 contests this year, falling 60-55 to Yerington on Wednesday in the Nugget Rail City Classic.

The Lions, who play in the 2A North, improved to 8-4.

Longland scored a team-high 21 points in the loss.

LASSEN 38, SPARKS 37

Sparks was unable to repeat its performance from one week prior.

The Railroaders picked up their first win of the season at home over Lassen, but fell at home to the same Lassen team last Tuesday morning in the Nugget Rail City Classic, 38-37.

The Grizzlies improved to 5-7.

Pack lays egg in Fresno, suffers first conference loss

Sparks Tribune

Many complained about the year that was 2016.

Nevada gave its fans one more thing to gripe about on New Year's Eve, blowing a 10-point second-half lead in Fresno.

The Wolf Pack played its worst game of the season, other than the opener at St. Mary's, and wore its first Mountain West loss of the season, 77-76, on the road to a Bulldog team that will endure its share of struggles this winter.

Nevada (12-3, 1-1) committed 17 turnovers in the loss that snapped a seven-game winning streak, none more costly than the last one inside the final minute that led to a transition dunk, breaking a 73-73 tie and putting Fresno (9-5, 1-1) in front for good.

Cam Oliver loosely tried to hand the ball off to Marcus Marshall, but Jaron Hopkins jumped between the two and went the other way for what proved to be game-winning dunk.

Fresno outscored Nevada 21-8 off turnovers and abused the Pack in the paint, where it outscored its guests by a staggering total of 50-16.

Once a brutal three-point shooting team, Nevada is greatly improved from beyond the arc but relied too heavily on the outside shot in defeat. The Wolf Pack did hit 13-of-31 from deep, good for a 42 percent clip. They didn't fall late, however.

After Lindsey Drew buried a triple with 11 minutes left to give Nevada its largest lead of the afternoon, 61-51, Nevada missed seven of its next nine from downtown. The brick session spurred an 18-5 Fresno run, propelling the Bulldogs in front, 69-66, with six minutes left.

The game was tied four more times before Hopkins' steal and dunk essentially put it away. Nevada again turned it over on its following possession and Paul Watson went to the line and stretched the lead to four with 13 seconds left.

SHOUP SHOTS

Sky is not falling for Nevada – yet

Let's call it like it is. Nevada suffered the dreaded "bad loss" on Saturday at Fresno. The Bulldogs simply are not a very good basketball team.

Before the win over Nevada, here's the list of Fresno's wins: University of Texas-San Antonio (69-66, at home), Lamar (at home), Oregon State (a team Nevada beat by 25, 63-58), Menlo (an NAIA school, by 13), Drake (by two in overtime), Cal Poly, Holy Names, and Pacific (in overtime).

The powerhouse that isn't Lamar is the only team on that list with a winning record, at 8-5, unless you include also 8-5 Menlo, but the Oaks aren't even an NCAA program. Texas-San Antonio is 6-8, Oregon State is 4-11, Drake is 3-11, Cal Poly is 5-9, Holy names is 1-11 – at the Div. II level, and Pacific is 6-9.

As soft as Fresno's non-conference schedule was, it still wore some of its own bad losses.

Some "concerning" defeats were to Prairie View A&M, at home (the Panthers are 3-11 this season) and to Bakersfield.

The Bulldogs entered Saturday's contest with an RPI of 197. The Wolf Pack entered with an RPI of 33 (it now sits at 44).

So there it is. There is no arguing. It was a bad loss. Nevada's margin of error is so small regarding its NCAA Tournament aspirations it can't afford such defeats it did a stellar job avoiding in non-conference play.

The Mountain West has taken a plunge in recent years and become a one-bid conference. That could change this year, but it won't be more than two teams, and the head-scratching loss certainly smears the Pack's resume.

Those things happen though. Regardless of talent level and/or coaching, it's too hard for teams to be at their best night in and night out – especially over the course a five-month season. Playing on the road, on a holiday, in a place like Fresno, against a rival only adds to the difficulty.

NATHAN SHOUP
SPORTS TALK

Nevada was not going to run the table in conference play. The travel schedule is too tough and there is too much parity in the Mountain West. A 14-4 record would be a brilliant run. It would put Nevada in contention for the regular season title and at 26 wins heading into the Mountain West Tournament.

If anything, the New Year's Eve result provided a wakeup call. If Nevada didn't already know, it is undoubtedly now aware it can't pick and choose the nights it wants to show up. Not in this conference. Not with an undermanned rotation that went seven deep on Saturday.

Everything this team has planned still lies ahead of it. The loss, although deflating, does not extinguish Nevada's hopes of returning to March Madness for the seventh time in program history, and for the first time since 2007.

We will quickly learn about this team's resilience after the gut punch in Fresno. Nevada hosts San Diego State (8-5, 0-1) on Wednesday then goes to New Mexico (9-5, 2-0) and Wyoming (11-4, 1-1).

If the Wolf Pack wants to assert itself as the team to beat in the Mountain West, here is its shot. It can use the loss as motivation, or it can use it as an excuse as it preps for the defining stretch of the season.

Chatter about the NCAA Tournament hasn't stopped since Nevada won the CBI last year. We'll find out if that conversation is justified over the next three games.

Not all "bad losses" have to be bad.

Shoup Shots was named the best column in the state of Nevada (community division) by the Nevada Press Association. Nathan has covered local sports since September 2013. He can be reached via email at nshoup@sparkstrib.com.

D.J. Fenner (14 points) and Jordan Caroline (13 points) also reached double figures in the win.

In a scary first-half moment, freshman Josh Hall was taken off the court on a stretcher and was sent to the hospital. He drew contact on a breakaway dunk attempt and appeared to land on his neck.

Nevada never trailed in the win, leading by as much as 26.

After a two-week non-league reprieve, regional play fires back up tonight.

Here's how the teams stack up entering the meat of the season.

1. SPANISH SPRINGS COUGARS (9-4, 4-0)

A 10-point and five-point loss to open their trip in San Diego gave way to a 10-point and four-point win to wrap up the Cougs' trip.

Tonight's contest at Damonte Ranch precedes a huge matchup at Bishop Manogue on Friday night. The Cougs lost to the Miners in the Wild West Shootout a month ago.

Last week: 1

2. BISHOP MANOGUE MINERS (9-5, 4-0)

The Miners also went to San Diego, where they also went 2-2, alternating losses and wins.

This week, Bishop Manogue will play the second and third contests in a stretch of four-straight home regional games. The Miners will host McQueen tonight, followed by the pivotal matchup against Spanish Springs on Friday.

Last week: 2

3. GALENA GRIZZLIES (12-3, 3-1)

Galena has moved on from the disappointing loss at Spanish Springs two weeks ago. After taking 10 days off, the Grizzlies went to Las Vegas last week and won three of their four contests.

The most impressive performance came in the opener, handling a talented Foothill team, 75-42.

Last week: 3

4. RENO HUSKIES (10-3, 3-1)

Already loaded up on non-league games, the Huskies did not play in a tournament over the break.

Their last time out, on Dec. 23, the Huskies handled Carson from the tip in a 49-35 rout.

Last week: 4

5. MCQUEEN LANCERS (7-5, 3-1)

McQueen joined Galena in Las Vegas last week, but did not see the same success. The Lancers dropped three of their four contests.

"(There was some) good and bad," first-year coach Keith Crawford said. "We identified who we are and are moving forward. I can't wait for league games."

Until something drastic changes, the story will remain constant. Can anyone chase down Bishop Manogue?

Six weeks into the season, the answer is clear. No. At least not yet.

1. BISHOP MANOGUE MINERS (8-2, 4-0)

The undefeated start to the season ended last week with losses in two of the first three in San Diego's SoCal Holiday Prep Classic.

Bishop Manogue fell Bishop's (14-1), the No. 47 team in all of California, and East Lake (9-5) of Chula Vista, Calif.

Last week: 1

2. RENO HUSKIES (12-4, 3-1)

The Huskies played in an incredibly deep Las Vegas Tournament field last week and won four of their five games.

Mikayla Shults was named to the all-tournament team. She was just one of five players (16 total were selected) from the state of Nevada to receive the honor.

Last week: 2

3. REED RAIDERS (8-2, 3-1)

The Raiders won all four of their games last week to win the Varsity Elite Tournament.

Reed capped the run on Wednesday with a 51-40 win over Lowry, last year's 3A North champ, at McQueen.

Last week: 3

4. MCQUEEN LANCERS (10-4, 4-0)

McQueen also played in the Varsity Elite Tournament, winning three of its four games.

The Lancers' lone loss came to San Leandro (San Leandro, Calif.) in the second game, 32-28. The Pirates are 5-8 this season.

Last week: 4

5. SPANISH SPRINGS COUGARS (10-4, 4-0)

The nine-game winning streak ended on Thursday with a 62-43 loss to Lawndale (Lawndale, Calif.) in Las Vegas as part of the Gator Winter Classic.

The Cougs won all three pool play games to get to the matchup with the Cardinals.

Universal gun background check law declared unenforceable

Question 1 has been impaled on a Catch-22.

You remember Question 1, don't you? It was on all the ballots in Nevada and passed with a mere 50.45 percent of the vote, failing in every county except Clark. It requires almost all private sales or transfers of firearms to be cleared by a criminal background check. Failure to comply would result in up to a year in jail and a $2,000 fine.

But Attorney General Adam Laxalt's office has opined that the drafters of Question 1 were too smart for their own good and created a law that cannot, at this time, be enforced, because the federal agency that is specifically required by the law to carry out said background checks refuses to do so.

The ballot summary stated: "The background check would be conducted using the National Instant Criminal Background Check System (NICS) administered by the Federal Bureau of Investigations (FBI), and the federally-licensed dealer would be able to charge a reasonable fee for conducting the background check and facilitating the firearm transfer between unlicensed persons."

But earlier this month the official in charge of the FBI's criminal background check system sent the state a letter saying his office would not conduct those background checks because Nevada is one of the many states that has entered into a sort of mutual aid pact in which the state becomes the Point of Contact for background checks. The state Department of Public Safety is given access to the NICS data bank and uses that and its own resources to conduct background checks for firearm sales.

The head of NICS said a state law cannot require a federal agency to expend resources and it will not.

Since the law specifies that background checks must be conducted through the NICS, the Department of Public Safety is prohibited from conducting the background check, the AG opinion states.

"The FBI's refusal to carry out

The horror of 'The Blog Age'

So, I'm bored on a Saturday morning. Should be exercising. Instead, I'm channel surfing, and I stumble on the movie "George A. Romero's Diary of the Dead" (2007.)

I am SO not recommending this film. But I do have to give it high marks for Bad Horror Film Providing A Stage For Apt, Timely Social Commentary. Specifically, Mr. Romero revisits the recipe of his cult classic "Night of the Living Dead" (now that's a great horror movie!) so he can critically investigate this modern world of media, instant and continuous communication of banality, ready delusion, self-flattery and paranoia.

Perhaps today Romero would include the most recent media metanalysis: The Fake News.

Put simply, living an actual human life and authentically participating in actual, authentic relationships is NOT the same as obsessive, voyeuristic peeping of media feeds or near-compulsive, exhibitionist recording and exposing of ... everything. Anything. And the latter is changing us. In some disturbing ways.

Thomas de Zengotita describes this cultural phenomena sans zombies in his 2005 book "Mediated." We more and more play-act our lives rather than live our lives, he says. We have less and less ability or even particular need to note the difference between reality and virtual reality.

It is one thing not to know the difference between truth and untruth. It is another thing entirely not to care about the difference (see the 2016 Presidential Election.)

Back to Romero's movie ...

As zombies lurch around eating everyone, male protagonist Jason faithfully and courageously stands guard over his recharging video camera. Romero means for us, I presume, to argue backwards from there regarding our emerging dystopian values. Later, female protagonist Debra, Jason's girlfriend, dares to be angry with Jason for filming the mayhem as opposed to doing something useful about it.

STEVEN KALAS

Debra, again I presume, is the depiction of a cultural artifact. To wit: a human being with actual, moral expectations of self and others.

As the credits roll, Debra narrates: "The more voices there are, the more spin there is. The truth becomes that much harder to find. In the end, it's all just noise."

You just don't expect gripping profundity popping out of the middle of a cheesy horror film. And it pushes me over the edge. I can't dodge this any longer. Pornography is no longer the most obscene consequence of the Age of Media and Internet. Shameless self-importance combined with willing delusion wins the prize.

Take blogging, for example. Blogging is all the rage. Everyone has a voice. About everything, it turns out. Everyone has something to say. Everyone should be heard. All the time, in fact. And it's worse than "just noise." It's mind-numbing. Exhausting. I keep feeling like I'm trapped in my Aunt Edna's living room, forced to watch 106 Kodak Carousel racks of slides from their trip to the Holy Land.

Okay, I admit I don't have an Aunt Edna, but, wanna know a secret? None of us is a uniquely fascinating human being in our day-to-day personal lives. Funny thing, I don't know when or how this got to be a secret. It was once common knowledge that human beings are rather ordinary.

But the Age of Media changed all that. It's not enough that your heart is filled with joy because your first-born took his first steps. No. You gotta upload it on YouTube, because it never occurs to you that homo sapien has been bipedaling for a long, long time. It's a great personal moment, yes; but not a particularly compelling collective moment.

See, if you keep feeding your children, that's what they do. They stand upright and walk. Later, they ask for money. Film that and put it on YouTube.

Another radical observation: While it's true that everyone has a voice, it's NOT true that everyone has something to say. And no one has something significant to say about everything. I'm saying, for example, just because John Lennon was a brilliant song-writer in the best band ever doesn't automatically qualify him to comment on the Viet Nam war.

And that's the point, of course. There are no qualifications, and zero personal shame about not having any.

EPILOGUE

Last fall, "ABC's 20/20: In An Instant" tapped a former patient of mine for an episode. She asked me to be a part of the story. On camera.

I paused. Hmm. Hers is an utterly heroic, human story. It has the potential to encourage and inspire. Yet, how might this profoundly human story be marred, distorted or exploited were it to be intruded upon and interpreted by the media?

I said yes. After several hours of filming, I got the distinct impression the director was hoping I'd become emotional. That I would cry.

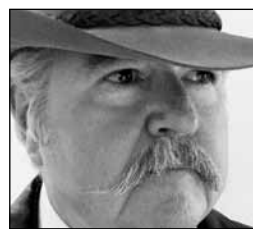

Right on cue.

Congress or Trump could undo monument designation

There is a word for what President Obama did this past week in declaring Gold Butte a national monument: dictatorial.

In just more than a year Obama has unilaterally declared off-limits to productive economic uses 1 million acres of Nevada land — first the 700,000-acre Basin and Range National Monument straddling the border between Lincoln and Nye counties and now the 300,000-acre Gold Butte National Monument in rural northeast Clark County.

THOMAS MITCHELL
COMMENTARY

This brings Obama's total protected acreage to 550 million — more than any predecessor and twice that set aside by Teddy Roosevelt under the Antiquities Act of 1906 — though much of Obama's designations are underwater.

Obama's designation of both Nevada national monuments completely ignored local elected officials and nearby residents, even though the Federal Land Policy Act of 1976 (flip-pantly know by the acronym Flip Ma) and the National Environment Policy Act (NEPA) require environmental reviews and public comments.

University football

HARRY SPENCER
COMMENTARY

Every time I read about a new head football coach at the University of Nevada, I am reminded of legendary coach Jim Aiken. Almost everyone that has played for him has his favorite stories about the hard-nosed football mentor. Even this writer has his share.

If you have the chance to examine the plaques in the Hall of Fame room located on the lower level of Legacy Hall, you should move to those located on the north wall and almost dead center. There you will see the scowling visage of the crusty Aiken. He coached at Nevada from 1939 until 1946 and was inducted into the Hall in 1979.

Even the picture does not do justice to the rugged and antagonistic demeanor of Aiken as a coach. As most athletes, past and present, know full well, when you go out on the field to compete you usually want to win for one of two reasons. First, you want to win because you admire your coach and want to win for his sake. Secondly, you detest your coach having a "demean the players" philosophy and you want to win just to show him that he was wrong. Mainly, Aiken's athletes adopted the latter philosophy. Even before my first contact with him (telephonically) I had heard stories about how tough he was and how hard on his charges he could be. One story, related to me by Harold Hayes, my roommate who secured my initial scholarship at the U, was about a halftime locker room meeting during a particular football game when Aiken was dissatisfied with the play of one of his halfbacks. Following a spicy pep talk, Aiken strode over and delivered a solid punch to the halfback's nose causing it to bleed profusely. Looking over at a couple of linemen who were shocked by the event he growled, "That's motivation!"

My first contact with "Gravel Gertie", as they nicknamed Aiken because of his loud and gravelly manner of speaking, was around midnight one snowy evening in January of 1945. I had just landed at the old Greyhound bus station on Center Street (now Harrah's Casino) and there was no one at the station to meet me. Eight days prior I had boarded my bus at Ft. Lauderdale, Florida for the trip west. After many connections, missed connections and cancellations due to wartime priorities, I arrived in Reno several days behind schedule. Not knowing anything about the town, I looked up Aiken's number and dialed the phone. I was completely unprepared for the booming, irritated voice that answered my ring.

"Who the blank blank is this?" was the first greeting.

"Why are you calling me at this hour?" was the second. I quickly explained who I was and asked him where I should go from the bus station. He told me to grab a cab, go to Lincoln Hall at the University and come see him in the morning. I mentioned that I did not have cab fare for the ride and in that Basso Profundo voice he roared, "Charge it to me!" and slammed his phone down. Happily, the cab driver acquiesced to the charge by noting, "You must be another one of those 'tramp athletes' that Aiken is always bringing to town!" I noted I probably was.

Finding a bed was a tough proposition after I succeeded in waking Dean Robert Griffin in order to let me into the building. The following morning, after breakfast with my then roommate George Vucanovich, I made my way to Aiken's office.

In person, Coach Aiken was even more overbearing. A husky individual with an 18-inch neck and an even more imposing voice in person, his first ADIOS, GAY ELLIKER. My dear friends the Ellikers have suffered inordinate loss over the past two years.

Patriarch Shirl passed away 23 months ago. ("Nevada loses an honorable man," Barbwire 2-27-2014). He was followed in August 2014 by his beautiful ballerina grand-daughter Callie Hutson, 24.

Shirl and Gay's son, Jim, 50, died as a passenger in a light plane crash near the Reno airport one year and one week after his niece, Callie. His memorial service at the Sparks LDS Church on N. Now, comes news that Zora Gay Elliker, 80, passed away in Utah three days after Christmas.

Gay and Shirl ran Jewelart in Moana West Center in the mid-1970s and later acquired Tanner's merchandise shows. They also operated a shop in Reno's Antique Mall.

Visitation for Mrs. Elliker will take place from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. this Thursday, Jan. 5, at O'Brien-Rogers-Crosby, 600 W. Second in Reno. A graveside memorial service will be held at 11:00 a.m. Jan. 6 at Masonic Memorial Gardens, 437 Stoker.

Obama legacy brightened by rebuke of Israel

Nothing becomes President Obama like his leaving office.

The final major act of his eight-year presidency was "seconding" the United Nations condemnation of Israel for its settlements in the West Bank.

This was courageous. U.S. presidents have constantly backed Israel whatever its outrages or wrong-doings since its founding in 1948.

Yet undeterred by the U.N. resolution and the Obama rebuke, Israel arrogantly plunged ahead with plans to build 5,600 units in the West Bank and East Jerusalem. Still another outrage.

Israeli Prime Minister Netanyahu bristled at the Obama remark and angrily blamed Obama for not vetoing the U.N. resolution. He also warned against any nation attacking Israel. Netanyahu declared that Israel does not "turn the other cheek."

Obama should have been far more critical of Israel during his tenure. But the lateness of the hour was better than never.

As this columnist has written several times, it was a terrible mistake to create Israel on Palestinian soil.

The Jews have been persecuted for centuries, six million Jews were slaughtered by the Nazis and Jews have suffered other horrible atrocities. But it was hardly wise to carve out the land for Israel in the Middle East.

Obama's secretary of state, John Kerry, blasted Israel in a major address. He rightly accused Netanyahu of sabotaging peace between Israel and Palestine. The blocking of a two-state solution thwarts any possibility of peace in the turbulent Middle East.

"The status quo is leading toward one state and perpetual occupation," Kerry said. "If the choice is one state, Israel can either be Jewish or democratic. It cannot be both and will never be at peace."

But President-elect Donald Trump cheered the Netanyahu statement. He told Netanyahu to ignore it. "Stay strong Israel," he wrote on Twitter. "January 20th is fast approaching." (Inauguration Day)

Trump, who is wrong about most things, is also wrong about defying Palestinian rights.

PUBLISHER RIPS OBAMA LEGACY

The Obama legacy, however, got some bad jolts from John MacArthur, publisher of Harper's Magazine. His book, "The Outrageous Barriers to Democracy in America," has an intriguing title and even more intriguing subtitle, "Or, why a Progressive Presidency Is Impossible."

Many Americans believed Obama might be a reformer, doing more than "just rearranging the furniture."

But not so. As Howard Dean, Democratic National Chairman, presciently warned us in 2004 with his angry denunciation of the Iraq invasion, the Democrats were warhawks, not peaceniks. Obama was a warhawk.

He did not withdraw from Iraq as promised. He did not pull out of Afghanistan as promised.

MacArthur also writes:

- "While Obama destroyed reform, the fund-raising machines of the Democratic and Republican parties endlessly sought cash to pay for TV advertising.

- "Never had an American politician spoken so many eloquent words about change and done so little about it.

- "Obama, the first African-American elected the central function required by the Act effectuates an unconditional ban, at present, on all private firearm sales or transfers in Nevada," the opinion concludes. "Criminal conviction, the only method by which the Act may be enforced according to its terms, is the ostensible penalty for selling or transferring a firearm in violation of this unintended ban. As a matter of due process, this makes the Act unenforceable as a criminal law. The Nevada Supreme Court long ago adopted the doctrine that the law does not require impossible acts. When a law imposes a requirement that cannot be performed, a party is relieved of compliance until the obstacle to performance is lifted."

Catch-22.

The law specifies one and only one method for conducting criminal background checks, thus prohibiting the state from doing so. Therefore, the law is unenforceable.

In his book of the same name this is how Joseph Heller explained Catch-22: A doctor said a certain pilot could be grounded from flying World War II combat missions because he was crazy, but first he would have to ask to be grounded, which would indicate he is sane, because only an insane person would willingly fly dangerous missions.

"There was only one catch and that was Catch-22, which specified that a concern for one's safety in the face of dangers that were real and immediate was the process of a rational mind," Heller wrote. "Orr was crazy and could be grounded. All he had to do was ask; and as soon as he did, he would no longer be crazy and would have to fly more missions. Orr would be crazy to fly more missions and sane if he didn't, but if he was sane he had to fly them. If he flew them he was crazy and didn't have to; but if he didn't want to he was sane and had to."

Here is how the AG opinion signed by Bureau Chief Gregory Zunino further explains it: "Here, similarly, while the Act imposes a duty on every Nevadan who seeks to privately sell or transfer a firearm, the Act has also created an obstacle — wholly beyond their control or that of the State itself — that currently presents them from meeting that duty. As a consequence, a law that the voters clearly intended to impose mere conditions upon the private sale or transfer of a firearm now operates as a total ban, clearly at odds with the intent of voters. When criminal penalties are threatened, the doctrine against requiring impossibilities is strengthened by due process and other constitutional guarantees. It is manifestly unjust to criminally penalize someone for failing to perform an act that is impossible to perform."

We hope this law just disappears down the rabbit hole from whence it came.

at his last minute attempt to cement his environmental legacy by undermining local control of Nevada's communities, and damaging our jobs and economy," Laxalt stated in a press release.

Sen. Dean Heller said he was terribly disappointed by Obama's action, saying such action should be conducted in an open public process with congressional input.

Retiring Sen. Harry Reid urged Obama to declare Gold Butte a monument before leaving office no matter what the local residents thought, and his hand-picked successor, Catherine Cortez Masto, sent out a tweet about Obama's action saying, "We have an obligation to protect places like Gold Butte. I'm grateful for President Obama's dedication to preserving our public lands."

The area's newly elected Democratic Rep. Ruben Kihuen was all for the designation. "As a Nevadan I couldn't be more thrilled that President Obama decided recently to give Gold Butte, Nevada's piece of the Grand Canyon, the full protection it deserves," Kihuen said in a statement. "This newest national monument designation in Nevada means that we now have the tools to properly safeguard Gold Butte's thousands of awe-inspiring rock formations, ancient petroglyphs, and rare wildlife for all Nevadans to enjoy."

Though resigned to the probability of the Gold Butte designation, Gov. Brian Sandoval said he worked to assure the local communities would continue to have access to water resources. He said he met with the White House and his staff held follow-up meetings.

"We also worked with the White House and Department of Interior to ensure Nevada water law is adhered to and that the Virgin Valley Water District would have access to its water infrastructure for continued development and maintenance," the governor related.

president and former labor organizer, did little for the labor movement as president."

NATION MAGAZINE PILES ON

The Nation magazine recently devoted an entire hefty issue to the Obama legacy.

Christopher Hayes noted:

- "America elected a black man president and half the people went out of their minds in anger.
- "The white working class realized that the American dream is a sham. Then con artist Obama promised to restore it and the working class bought the con."

On Inauguration Day in the Washington Mall in 2009, Obama delivered an institutional pep talk: "Starting today we must pick ourselves up, dust ourselves off and begin the work of remaking America."

He failed even to try. But he did warmonger, spending trillions on aerial surveillance, drones, Saudi Arabian weapons and wars in Iraq, Afghanistan, Syria, Libya, Yemen, Pakistan and Somalia.

Greg Grandin, New York University history professor, observed:

"Campaigning in 2008, Obama offered a there is language referring to "existing" water rights, meaning that it is unlikely any new water resources could be developed for future needs since "no new rights-of-way shall be authorized within the monument."

Additionally, the proclamation says no grazing rights have been permitted on the land since 1998 and no grazing permits will be allowed within the monument.

Sandoval tried to be hopeful, "My priority was to mitigate any disruption a potential designation may cause the surrounding private land owners, communities and recreationists. We all share a common goal of enacting smart conservation measures which help preserve our lands for the use and enjoyment of all Nevadans. My strong preference is for a more collaborative process when making such an important designation. I firmly believe our ranchers, environmentalists, and community stakeholders are the best experts in ensuring Nevada's lands are preserved, protected and accessible. I also believe that with this designation comes duties, responsibilities and an expectation that the BLM will properly manage the area and commit the funds necessary to do so."

Though the White House blatantly declared that President-elect Donald Trump cannot undo the creation of this and other monuments, the Congressional Review Act allows a simple majority of each house of Congress to revoke such decisions. It has rarely been successfully used since the president who issued the decision can veto an act of Congress and that takes two-thirds to override. The difference this time is that Trump takes office on Jan. 20.

Also Trump could simply rescind the monument designation, but he has been waffling on whether locals should have more say on federal land issues.

Also, the Nevada Washington delegation is now two-thirds Democrats, who are behold- ing only to urban Las Vegas.

vision of patriotism, using his own success to celebrate the country's meritocracy. He called that proof of overcoming racial division and demonstrating our exceptionalism. He recalled Madeleine Albright as the first woman to become secretary of state. He recalled her labeling the U.S. as the 'indispensable nation.'"

Siva Vaidhyanathan, professor of media studies, University of Virginia, wrote that Obama while campaigning "spoke the Silicon Valley tech language until it came to warrantless surveillance. The Blackberry-toting son of an immigrant professed to share the Valley's commitment to open dialogue, open networks, global connectivity and corporate-speak ('data-driven decision-making')."

But Obama embraced warrantless wiretapping by the National Security Agency and its gathering of foreign intelligence.

Robert Borosage, president of the Institute for America's Future, declared that Obama called himself in 2008 "the transformational president" and "would put us on a fundamentally different path." He was not transformational and he did not seek a different path.

In short, the Obama presidency was marked by marvelous rhetoric and lofty language but few deeds.

Getting old pays off

Jim Miller
The Savvy Senior

Dear Savvy Senior,

What types of discounts are available to baby boomers, at what age do they kick in, and what's the best way to go about finding them?

Almost 50

Dear Almost,

One of the great perks of growing older in America is the many discounts that are available to boomers and seniors.

There are literally thousands of discounts on a wide variety of products and services including restaurants, grocery stores, travel and lodging, entertainment, retail and apparel, health and beauty, automotive services and much more. These discounts – typically ranging between 5 and 25 percent off – can add up to save you hundreds of dollars each year.

So, if you don't mind admitting your age, here are some tips and tools to help you find the discounts you may be eligible for.

ALWAYS ASK

The first thing to know is that most businesses don't advertise them, but many give senior discounts just for the asking, so don't be shy.

You also need to know that while some discounts are available as soon as you turn 50, many others may not kick in until you turn 55, 60, 62 or 65.

SEARCH ONLINE

Because senior discounts frequently change and can vary depending on where you live and the time of the year, the Internet is the easiest way to help you locate them.

To do a search, start by visiting SeniorDiscounts.com, which lists thousands of discounts that you can search for by city and state, and by the category you're interested in, for free.

You can also look for discounts at TheSeniorList.com, which provides a large list of national and regional business chains that offer them, or you can Google them individually. Just go to Google.com and type in the business or organization you're curious about, followed by "senior discount" or "senior discount tickets."

If you use a smartphone, another tool is the Sciddy app (see Sciddy.com) that lets you search for senior discounts and can send you alerts when you're at an establishment that offers them.

JOIN A CLUB

Another good avenue to senior discounts is through membership organizations like AARP, which offers its 50 and older members a wide variety of discounts through affiliate businesses (see AARPdiscounts.com).

If, however, you're not the AARP type, there are other alternative organizations you can join that also provide discounts such as The Seniors Coalition or the American Seniors Association. Or, for federal workers, there's the National Active and Retired Federal Employees Association.

TYPES OF DISCOUNTS

Here's an abbreviated rundown of some of the different types of discounts you can expect to find.

Restaurants: Senior discounts are common at restaurants and fast food establishments – like Burger King, Chick-fil-A, Subway, Wendy's, Applebee's and Golden Corral – ranging from free/discounted drinks, to discounts off your total order.

Retailers: Many thrift stores like Goodwill, and certain retailers like Banana Republic, Kohl's, Michaels and Ross stores offer a break to seniors on certain days of the week.

Supermarkets: Many locally owned grocery stores offer senior discount programs, as do some chains like Albertsons, Kroger, Publix and Fry's Supermarkets, which offer some discounts on certain days of the week but they vary by location.

Travel: Southwest Airlines provide the best senior fares in the U.S. to passengers 65 and older, while Amtrak offers a 15 percent discount and Greyhound offers 5 percent off to travelers over 62. Most car rental companies provide discounts to customers who belong to organizations like AARP. Royal Caribbean, Celebrity and Carnival cruise lines offer discount rates to cruisers 55 and over. And, most hotels offer senior discounts, usually ranging from 10 to 30 percent.

Entertainment: Most movie theaters, museums, golf courses, ski slopes and other public entertainment venues provide reduced admission to seniors over 60 or 65. And the National Park Service offers a lifetime pass for those 62 and up for $10 (see nps.gov/findapark/passes.htm).

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior.org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

ASTRO ADVICE WEEKLY

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Consider what you have been doing professionally and the changes you want to make on the 2nd, 3rd and 4th. Check the online job market, and an opportunity will grab your attention. Don't let anyone interfere with a decision you make regarding a personal relationship.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): On the 2nd, 3rd and 4th, you'll have a much better view of the possibilities after you look over your financial situation and talk to an expert about what you want to do. Offering someone a helping hand will result in an unexpected reward.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Don't limit what you can do on the 2nd, 3rd and 4th. Cutting ties with people you may need to consult with in the future will set you back. Diplomacy will be necessary. Remember -- there are always two sides to a story. Do something that will help you relax on the 5th and 6th. A little pampering or updating your appearance will improve your mood and help prepare you for a new beginning.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A pleasure or business trip is encouraged on the 2nd, 3rd and 4th. You'll be given an opportunity to do something you enjoy, but before you say yes, find out if it is within your budget. Discuss your plans with anyone you are in a partnership with before you move forward on the 5th and 6th. Getting the go-ahead will give you the freedom to move forward worry-free.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): On the 2nd, 3rd and 4th, an emotional situation due to a situation that arises involving an older friend or relative will result in reconnecting with someone from your past. Be diplomatic, and protect your possessions and reputation. A short trip on the 5th and 6th will give you something to think about regarding what you do and where you live.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Personal and professional partnerships should take top priority on the 2nd, 3rd and 4th. Find out what you can do to encourage greater collaboration in order to work together to reach maximum growth and greater stability over the upcoming year. Take care of matters pertaining to your personal finances on the 5th and 6th.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Emotional spending will be your downfall on the 2nd, 3rd and 4th. You cannot buy love or happiness -- both come from within. Aim to be and do your best by living within your means. A change in the way you feel or relate to a friend, colleague or your lover will arise on the 5th and 6th.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): The 2nd, 3rd and 4th will be insightful for you if you discuss your ideas and long-term goals with someone you love. Change what isn't working for you instead of making due with a situation that is holding you back. Do the legwork that will help you catapult into the lifestyle that you desire on the 5th and 6th.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You'll face opposition from someone who doesn't like the choices you are making on the 2nd, 3rd and 4th. Be honest about the way you feel and how you plan to move forward. Avoid insult or injury by taking precautions. A change to your surroundings or the way you run your home will do you good on the 5th and 6th.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Take a walk down memory lane on the 2nd, 3rd and 4th, and you will rediscover dreams that you have yet to fulfill. Make a point to get in touch with someone who shared those aspirations, and see what happens. Be careful not to make a hasty decision on the 5th and 6th.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): An opportunity to change the way you earn your living will open up on the 2nd, 3rd and 4th. Before you jump from one position to another, make sure the fit suits your financial needs. Negotiate until it's worth your while. Someone you have worked with in the past will offer good advice as well as other options that should be considered on the 5th and 6th.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You'll be restricted by someone in an authoritative position on the 2nd, 3rd and 4th if you use emotional manipulation to get your way. Do what you can to help others if you want to improve your reputation and chance to excel. The dynamics of an important relationship will change on the 5th and 6th if you aren't willing to compromise or agree to strive for greater equality.

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Secret baptism for bay is scheme that's all wet

DEAR ABBY: My niece has a 1-year-old son. Neither my niece nor the baby's father is religious, and they have chosen not to have the baby baptized. My sister, the baby's grandmother, while not wanting to impose her beliefs on the parents, comes from a generation when even couples who were not demonstrably religious usually had their baby baptized.

I know it would comfort my sister to know this ancient ceremony had been performed. Since my sister watches the little boy at her house, would it be wrong for us to organize an informal baptism -- just holy water and a couple of prayers? We don't feel we need to have an officiant of any religion present and, of course, we would not tell the baby's parents. Would this be appropriate? -- MORTIFIED IN MONTANA

DEAR MORTIFIED: No, it would not. If you were sure that it would be, you wouldn't have written to me about it. My advice is not to do ANYTHING like this behind the parents' backs, because if you do, there will be hell to pay. Consider this: Not all denominations baptize their members as infants.

DEAR ABBY: Please

DEAR ABBY
BY JEANNE PHILLIPS

post my message for people to be more considerate and nonjudgmental about their "help." I am a housekeeper by choice. I have office skills, massage therapy skills and many talents, but I have noticed that clients seem to have a preconceived idea of who I am.

I am not someone who is money-driven. I am also not uneducated. I am a person who enjoys helping others, no matter what I may be doing. What I do for a living is not who I am.

I have been treated disrespectfully. People who have housekeepers -- beware. We "might" be doing a sociological study on how people treat the help. Wasn't there a movie about that? Be kind to each other, people! -- THE HELP

DEAR HELP: What you have experienced isn't a problem faced only by housekeepers. It is something that many service industry workers encounter all too often. Perhaps it happens because some people were never taught that inside the uniform is a person with real feelings, and that everyone deserves to be treated with respect.

DEAR ABBY: After a year together, my boyfriend recently proposed. We plan to wed in two years. During this time, he intends to move into my home so we can save for the wedding. My parents, however, are completely against our living together before we get married.

Abby, I'm 30 years old and so is my fiance. I own my own home and my boyfriend currently rents. My parents are very traditional and may not help with the wedding if we move in together. We can't afford to pay for much if we don't do it and save. On top of that, we are excited to start our lives together. Do I honor my parents' wishes or do what I feel is right for me and my fiance? -- ROCK AND A HARD PLACE

DEAR ROCK AND A HARD PLACE: You and your fiance are both 30, which means you are well into adulthood. Don't you think it's time for you both to start becoming and thinking like independent adults? By that I mean deciding which is more important to you -- living your lives the way your parents want, or the way you want.

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law passed away two years ago from lung cancer. My father-in-law hasn't taken it well. This year at Christmas he fabricated a letter and gifts "from her" for the grandkids, as if she had written the letter and bought the gifts before she passed away. He did it without my knowledge.

I am angry and upset that I was made part of this lie without my consent. I refuse to lie to my daughter about this and plan to throw the letter away. My daughter is 6 and doesn't seem to understand. My husband doesn't think it's that big a deal and doesn't know what he can do about it.

I loved my mother-in-law, but I'm tired of dealing with this. This is not the first strange thing my father-in-law has done. I feel like I get no support from my husband, who won't ever say anything to his dad. Am I right in how I feel? -- DON'T WANT TO LIE IN OHIO

DEAR DON'T WANT TO LIE: Of course you are right. Your father-in-law appears to be grieving deeply for his wife, and he may not be able to work through it without the aid of a grief support group or a therapist.

You should also be aware that a severe emotional shock can sometimes cause the onset of dementia in older adults. If his strange behavior continues, then for his own sake, he may need to be evaluated by his doctor, and your husband would be doing his father no favors to ignore it.

LEGALS

BEFORE THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF NEVADA

NOTICE OF APPLICATION TO REVISE TARIFF

Sierra Pacific Power Company d/b/a NV Energy ("SPPC") filed an Application with the Public Utilities Commission of Nevada ("Commission") under Advice Letter No. 321-G, designated as Docket No. 16-12034, to revise Gas Main Extensions Rule No. 9 to adjust applicable tax liability factors.

This Notice serves only to notify the public that the Commission has received the above-referenced filing. It is the responsibility of interested persons to review the filing and monitor the proceedings to determine their desired levels of involvement based on how this matter may affect their unique situations. The details provided within this Notice are for informational purposes only and are not meant to be an all-inclusive overview of the filing. The Commission will make a determination at an open meeting regarding whether to grant the relief requested, which may have an impact on consumers.

SPPC filed the Application in accordance with the Nevada Revised Statutes ("NRS") and the Nevada Administrative Code ("NAC"), Chapters 703 and 704, including, but not limited to, NRS 704.100 and NAC 703.400.

Interested and affected persons may file: 1) petitions for leave to intervene made pursuant to NAC 703.578 through 703.600 or 2) protests at either of the Commission's offices on or before WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 25, 2017.

A person who wishes to participate as a commenter may file written comments pursuant to NAC 703.491. A commenter is not a party of record and shall not take any action that only a party of record may take. Pursuant to NAC 703.500, only parties of record are entitled to enter an appearance, introduce relevant evidence, examine and cross-examine witnesses, make arguments, make and argue motions and generally participate in the proceeding.

The Application is available for public viewing at the Commission's website at: <http://puc.nv.gov> and at the offices of the Commission: 1150 East William Street, Carson City, Nevada 89701 and 9075 West Diablo Drive, Suite 250, Las Vegas, Nevada 89148. A person must make a written request to be placed on the service list for this proceeding to receive any further notices in this matter.

By the Commission,

TRISHA OSBORNE,
 Assistant Commission Secretary

A MINOR CHILD.

ORDER FOR PUBLICATION OF NOTICE OF HEARING (JOHN DOE)

Upon reading the Second Amended Verified Petition for Termination of Parental rights filed by Petitioners, BRIAN and JENNIFER WOODS, and from other good and sufficient cause shown, the Court finds that it is probable that JOHN DOE may reside in Washoe County, Nevada and that notice of the hearing cannot be served upon JOHN DOE person within the State of Nevada. The Court further finds from said Verified Petition For Termination of Parental Rights that a cause of action exists in favor of Petitioner and against JOHN DOE that JOHN DOE is a necessary and proper party and that the last known address of JOHN DOE was Washoe County Nevada. The Court further finds that the Sparks Tribune is a newspaper regularly published in the County of Washoe, State of Nevada is the newspaper most likely to give notice to JOHN DOE of pendency of the suit.

NOW, THEREFORE, it is hereby ORDERED that the Notice of Hearing in the suit be served on JOHN DOE by publication thereof in the above-named newspaper, and that said publication be made for a period of four (4) weeks and at least once a week during said time; and that Service of Process upon JOHN DOE shall be deemed legally effective after the completion of publication.

COMES NOW Petitioner, BRIAN MICHAEL STAGGS, by and through his attorney of record, Bryan J. Carpenter, Esq., of CARPENTRE LAW OFFICE, and petitions this Court as follows:

I. Petitioner was born August 13, 1974, to Brian Michael Staggs and Ann Staggs, who were then husband and wife.

II. Petitioner wishes to change his name from BRIAN MICHAEL STAGGS to BRIAN MICHAEL RUGGIERO because Mr. Staggs has been so known from his childhood years through his adult life, and wished his personal documents to reflect.

III. Petitioner has not been convicted of any felony, nor is Petitioner seeking a name change for any illegal purpose.

IV. The Petitioner, BRIAN MICHAEL STAGGS, is a resident of Washoe County, State of Nevada, and resides at 2435 Sycamore Glen Drive, #12 Sparks, Nevada, 89434.

V. Petitioner requests that his name be legally changed to BRIAN MICHAEL RUGGIERO.

AFFIRMATION PURSUANT TO NRS 239B.030

The undersigned does hereby affirm that the preceding document does not contain the social security number of any person.

SUMMONS

NOTICE: YOU HAVE BEEN SUED. THE COURT MAY DECIDE AGAINST YOU WITHOUT YOUR BEING HEARD UNLESS YOU RESPOND WITHIN 20 DAYS. READ THE INFORMATION BELOW.

TO THE ABOVE-NAMED DEFENDANT: You are hereby summoned and required to serve upon Plaintiff's attorney, whose address is set forth below, an Answer to the Complaint which is herewith served upon you, within 20 days after service of this Summons upon you, exclusive of the day of service. If you fail to do so, judgment by default will be taken against you for the relief demanded in the Complaint, which is a "COMPLAINT FOR COLLECTION."

* If you intend to defend this lawsuit, within 20 days after this Summons is served on you exclusive of the day of service, you must do the following:

a. File with the Clerk of the Court, whose address is shown below, a formal written response (answer) to the Complaint in accordance with the rules of the Court. A filing fee of $71.00 is required, or you must file an Application to Proceed in Forma Pauperis and request a waiver of the fee.

b. Serve a copy of your response upon the attorney whose name and address is shown below.

*Unless you respond, your default will be entered upon application of the Plaintiff, and this Court may enter a judgment against you for the relief demanded which could result in the taking of money or property or other relief.

* If you intend to seek the advice of an attorney, you should do so promptly so that your response will be timely.
